Moralists may prate, and doctors prose, and science shout from the housetop, but just so long as the birds sing and the flowers bloom and a maiden's lips are cherry-red, and a young man's eyes look long, just so long the lads and lassies will kiss—and kiss again.

And where, good men, is the harm if the kissers and kissed be healthy, and true love stands sponsor. It is only when ill-health has blasted the sweet cleanliness of youth that death lurks upon its lips. The deadly germs of dread consumption are as harmless as June-time butterflies to the young man or woman who is thoroughly clean, sweet and healthy in every fiber and tissue. The germs of disease only attack that which is already partly decayed. There is a great medicine that is a sure and certain protection against all germs and a speedy cure for all germ diseases. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It gives youthfulness to the appetite. It corrects all faults of the digestion. It aids assimilation. It fills the blood with the vital, life-giving elements of the food. It builds sweet clean, healthy tissues in every part of the body. It drives out all disease germs. It cures 98 per cent of all cases of bronchial, throat and lung affections if taken in time. All good medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing "just as good."

Mr. Jos Henderson Dirblun, of 544 Josephine Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I was ailing for some two years, suffering from dyspepsia, a tired feeling, and loss of energy and appetite. I tried one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and great relief. I took two more bottles, three in all, and one or two of the 'Pellets' when I was in good health again. I recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to do all that it is claimed to do."

A man or woman who neglects constipation suffers from slow poisoning. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. All medicine dealers sell them. No other pills are "just as good."

Scenery That Acts.
Scenery that acts! If Wagner had wrought no other revolution on the operatic stage, he would deserve our gratitude. Take for purpose of comparison the vessel in "L'Africaine" and the ship in the first act of "Tristan and Isolde." The former shows the section of a vessel as neatly divided into various compartments as a box of seed samples. If the scene is well done, if, when the double basses begin to rumble and the ship begins to roll, the women shriek in their compartments, the priests pray in theirs, and the savages whose canoes would surely have been swamped in the storm, supposing they could have been launched at all, climb over the ship's side and massacre everything in sight—well, we see the cleverness of it and are entertained, but hardly horror-stricken or overcome by terror. On the other hand, the ship's deck in "Tristan," with its group of silent men near the helm and its passion-torn woman in the foreground, the distant horizon line suggesting the sea far more effectively than a whole platoon of mechanically "worked" waves possibly can, creates illusion and atmosphere, and forms as much a component part of the music drama as the singers and orchestra. The ship in "L'Africaine" is a clever bit of stage mechanics; the ship in "Tristan" is scenery that acts.—Gustav Kobbe in Century.

It Paid to Be Cheerful.
A manufacturer of Kensington tells this true tale: "Fifteen years ago I was very rich, but ten years ago there came a time when it seemed that I'd surely fall. One day when a smash appeared a certainty I walked down Chestnut street toward the wool warehouses, blue, blue as indigo, but I braced up and put on a cheerful air. Just then a man I knew came in and said: 'Say, Bill, what makes you always look so cheerful? Don't you ever have any trouble at all?' 'Oh, yes,' said I, jollying a little; 'but to look blue doesn't do any good,' etc. 'Well,' this fellow said, 'I tell you what I'm going to do. I've got $25,000 lying idle, and I'm going to get you to invest it for me. You're so well off, so lucky in business always, and so blamed cheerful, I'm sure nothing ever falls with you, and I want you to invest this money any way you please, and I won't even ask you how you did invest it.' 'Well, I took this man's money. It was just the amount my tottering business needed. A year later times and prices were vastly better, and I paid the $25,000 back with interest at what do you think?—9 per cent.'—Philadelphia Record.

A Heartless Maiden.
There is a girl in town who, being both bright and pretty, has a good many admirers, but the most ardent of all happens to be a pudgy old grass widower, with two grandchildren and a red nose. Naturally she has to stand a good deal of geying on his account and skips him as much as possible. So much, in fact, that the poor man had no chance to plead his cause in private and alone and so was at last driven by the use of pen and paper.

Here is his production. It is recommended to all bashful lovers for its brevity and beauty, as well as businesslike construction:

Nettie, I want to know my fate. You know that I love you. Will you marry me? If so, speak to me about it. I think the world of you. Give me a chance, Nettie. Yours truly, BLANKET DAVE.

And would you believe it? That heartless maiden hasn't "spoken to him about it" yet.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Story of Judge Mattacks.
Henry Keyes of Vermont was a life-long Democrat. Governor Mattacks—or Judge Mattacks—was for a brief period a Democrat also. After he got to be a judge he soon became a Whig. While holding court at St. Johnsbury he occupied a room at the leading hotel, which, as was usual during court time, was dull. Late at night Mr. Keyes arrived and wanted a bed. The landlord informed him that every bed in the house had two in it except the one that was occupied by Judge Mattacks. "Go up and tell him that Henry Keyes wants to sleep with him." The landlord went up, rapped at the judge's door, and told him his errand. "Henry Keyes," said the judge half asleep; "Henry Keyes of Newbury? Democrat? Oh, yes, I've had it once. Let him in."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Mount Rainier's Shadow.
A recent visitor from the east to Puget sound describes with enthusiasm the wonderful shadow effects produced by, and upon, the gigantic snowy cone of Mount Rainier. It sometimes happens that the sky, as seen from the city of Tacoma just before sunrise, is covered with a dome of cloud 15,000 feet, or more, in height, while behind the peak, toward the east, the sky is clear. In such circumstances the rising sun casts the shadow of the great mountain upon the cloud curtain overhead in the form of a vast blue triangle, the point of which rests upon the apex of the peak. At other times the shadow of the earth can be seen creeping up the cone in a distinct curve, while the flush of sunset stains the snow above the line of shadow to a deep pink.—Youth's Companion.

Mrs. Drew's Opinion of Edwin Booth.
Edwin Booth had a very sweet character and a charming manner at rehearsals, which he detested. I think, after Hamlet, his Bertuccio in the "Fool's Revenge" was his finest representation. He threw his whole soul into it, and it was indeed a performance to be remembered.—Mrs. John Drew in Scribner's.

Didn't Object to His Creed.
The English language reminds me of some of these typewriters and the game of whist. It looks mighty simple, but the further you go along the more complicated and swear provoking it is. We have all heard of the man who told his sweetheart that before marrying her he must confess that he was a somnambulist. "Oh, I don't mind that," said the dear, sweet girl, "we are Presbyterians ourselves, but we are not a bit narrow."—Louisville Times.

Boy Babies and City Life.
Cities are more favorable to women, for statistics show that more boy babies die under 6 months in cities than girl babies. Families, according to the statistics, are larger in cities than in the country. There are more marriages in proportion to the population in cities than in the country, and also more divorces. The foreign population in cities is being eliminated, and in 20 years from now we shall practically have nothing but American cities.—St. Paul Globe.

A STICK WITH A STORY.

The Odd Office Which It Performed In a Gambling Den.

"There's an odd little story connected with this old cane," said a New Orleans sporting man the other day. "You will observe how heavy it is and how the ferrule comes down to a sharp point. It used to be carried by an old chap who was a well known character here back in the seventies. He had an interest in a very crooked gambling house. I won't hurt anybody's feelings by mentioning the exact location, but it was a saying that you might as well slide your money under the door and walk off. It saved time.

"This old fellow I'm speaking of never operated any of the games, but was apparently a mere spectator. His business was to dispose of what were known technically as 'knockers.' A knocker was anybody who attempted to put a victim on his guard, usually a well meaning but officious friend. For example, a visitor would be playing at one of the games and his friend, looking on, would smell a rat. As a rule he would feel it his duty to say something, and such suggestions were naturally resented by the house.

"When the old man would see a knocker about to knock he would hobble up, leaning heavily on his cane, and plant the ferrule, as if by accident, squarely on the offender's foot. Such a prod would cause the victim excruciating agony, and he would immediately lose all interest in exposing fraud. While he was writhing and groaning the old fellow would overwhelm him with apologies and insist upon his coming into the back room to get a drink. Meantime the other chap would be losing his money as fast as he could get it out.

"There's no telling how much plunder this stick has been the means of securing. Its original owner has been dead these many years, and I keep it as a curiosity."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

AN EFFECTIVE SERMON.

A Trumpet Blast That Drove the People to Repentance.

A prominent Methodist churchman recently told the following story of old Peter Cartwright, the famous preacher and circuit rider of many years ago:

The exhorter was holding a camp meeting in Ohio. There was a great number of campers on the field, and the eccentric speaker addressed vast concourses at every service, but he thought too few were being converted. He felt that something should be done to stir the sinners to repentance, so he prepared a strong sermon on the second coming of Christ. He told how the world would go on in its sin and wickedness, and at last Gabriel would sound his trumpet and time would come to an end. He described the horrors of the lost and the joys of those who were saved. The sermon grew in intensity, and he brought his people up to a grand climax when suddenly the sound of a trumpet smote the ears of the anxious throng.

There was a great sensation, and many fell upon their knees in terror and began to repent and pray. Women screamed and strong men groaned; pandemonium was let loose for a few minutes. After the terror had somewhat ceased the preacher called to a man up a tree and he descended with a long tin horn in his hand. The speaker then turned in fierce wrath and upbraided the people. He cried out in stentorian tones that if a man with a tin horn up a tree could frighten them so, how would it be in the last great end when Gabriel's trumpet sounded the knell of the world. The sermon had a great effect upon the vast audience, and many hundreds flocked to the front and were converted.—New York Tribune

NEVADA SULKERS.

If the people of Nevada sulk in their tent while waiting for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the time honored ratio of 16 to 1, we will continue to grow of less importance nationally.—Gazette.

The editor of the Gazette, we presume, has been reading Homer, and has learned from that able and ancient writer that some of the Greeks sulked in their tents before Troy, which sulking was away back in the B.C.'s. To the reproduction of like times and conditions upon the earth as was then upon mankind the editor of the Gazette is giving his best efforts.

Some of the Greeks sulked, but by severe fighting they reduced Troy; and the silver men in Nevada, in their sulks, aided by those who sulk with them, will yet reduce the goldbug hierarchy to a pulp.

We do not understand why it is that the editor should go into the dim distance to fish up a simile from the murky past to apply to silver men, unless it may be that he loves to dwell on the dark side of life, which we do not believe is true, as sunshine seems to illuminate the better side of his nature. We are of the opinion, because it is sustained by the truth, that the cause that led the editor to select a simile from Homer is that the fight before Troy was about a woman, and the well known gallantry of the editor gives to his friends an intelligent solution of the reason that inspired the simile, "sulk in their tent."

The editor, in the same article that the above extract is taken from, made another strange allusion to silver men: "Let all who think that Nevada has no future except silver mining stay on the tangent many have been on for the past six years, and they will run behind financially and socially and be classed as back numbers, as they are to-day, for all time and eternity."

The editor is usually up to what he is writing about, and we conclude he has had in the editorial mind another simile that gives an explanation to the last quotation, which simile is taken from the history of the Roman republic and empire. In the early history of Rome the patricians became rulers, declaring their will through the senate, and so continued to declare their will till Caesar largely supplanted the Roman fathers by making the republic an empire.

In many of the years of the republic and empire the class who worked and were enslaved by the patricians were not recognized socially as they were classed as back numbers "to-day, for all time and eternity," and to distinguish them from the rich patrician class, the toilers were called plebeian, which term the editor perhaps had in his mind when he wrote "will run behind financially and socially."

The editor, we conclude from his use of language, can now see in the near future the patrician and the plebeian in the United States, should it be otherwise the editor may in the future give to the people the object that had possession of his mind when he used the words "behind financially as well as socially."

The relation mentioned by the editor that will be given to silver men in the future is the relation that the plebeians, or slaves sustained to Roman society and to be just to the editor and to his language no other construction can be given to it than that which we have given.

Another cause we have for concluding that the conditions in Rome named are those referred to in connection with silver men is that the tendency of the times and the work of the political party to which the editor claims to be long is to plebeinize and enslave the people and the demoralization of silver was the first effort made to enslave them, and so long as the independent and noble among the people aspire to freedom will they continue to work for its remonetization as there is in its restoration to a State of freedom, a security against the intended enslavement of mankind through the power of money.

We are obliged to the editor for his frank admission respecting the future relation that silver men will sustain to the patrician goldbug society in Nevada. It is not a bright future that is given to silvermen in the State, as the persons, who will claim to sustain the relation of patricians among us, are decidedly scrubby.

The humiliation incident to a plebeian or slave position to those who will claim to occupy the patrician character will be enlarged to high-minded and honorable men who are in favor of maintaining the integrity of their country through the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

Nevada is heard from in Congress upon the currency measure before the House. It is reported: "Mr. Newlands of Nevada contended that the panic of 1893 was not caused by the coinage of silver under the Sherman act. He said the increase of prosperity during the past two years demonstrated the correctness of the theory entertained by bimetalists, that all other things being equal, prices will depend upon the quantity of money in circulation, that an increase of the money volume meant higher prices, and the diminution of the volume meant lower prices."

There is no question upon the correctness of Mr. Newlands' position before the House. The currency bill is in the interests of the national banks.

The present volume of money is much larger than it was two years ago. Money has been given out freely for two years; by the owners of money and the sales of our food products to foreign countries have been large and the result of increased circulation has been to make prices better, which will be a temporary matter when the banks have full control of the money of the country, and if it is not temporary the history of money matters will be reversed.

With the banks in full control of the money currency of the country it can be controlled at pleasure to the destruction of trade and general industry.

SOME WADSWORTH "DISPATCHES"

News of the Busy Little City Down the Truckee River.

Joe and Ted Jackson were called home Saturday on account of the illness of their sister. She is suffering with brain fever, thought to have been brought on by over study while attending the State University.

A dear hunting party consisting of C. E. Brown, Alex. Forrest, Wm. Water and Mr. McBride spent Saturday and Sunday at the Wilcocks ranch and killed one dear little rabbit and one dear little sagehen, and the dear little hunters came back.

The ladies have prepared a short program to be rendered Friday night, at the Aid fair. A leading feature will be violin solos by Prof. Henry, who is a skilled performer on his favorite instrument. Program will commence at 8:30.

W. O. Williams came down from Olinghouse Saturday evening with 52 ounces of bullion which was produced from Cabin Claim No. 2, out of 11½ tons of ore, milled by Proctor & Allen. It looked nice and Bill accordingly wore a pleasant smile.

Those Crossed Wires.

We stated yesterday and reiterate to-day that telephone wires, blowing against electric light wires are a constant source of danger from fire and electrocution in this city.

We will gladly accept any evidence that Mr. Lake of the Sunset Company is not responsible for this state of affairs, although we have creditable witnesses to the effect that telephone wires are causing the trouble.

Mr. Lake in a communication in the afternoon hand-bill denies that telephone wires ever cross electric light wires. This can only be partially true, for in an interview yesterday evening with a JOURNAL reporter he stated that the crossings were due to the wires strung by the Bell Company. We hope this is true on Mr. Lake's account. At all events telephone and electric light wires raise the very diabolical when the Washoe zephyrs blow.

PERSONALS.

Madigan, the insurance man, went to Frisco last night.

George Russell of Elko is registered at the Palace.

A. J. McMurtry came down from Carson yesterday.

Elliot Edison of Verdi inscribed his name on the Arcade hotel register yesterday.

Novelty and Burlesque.

Nature's monarch of imitators is the manner in which A. C. Lawrence is styled by the Rentz-Stantley Novelty and Burlesque Company. His act without doubt has all the merit of novelty. He has a baritone voice of wondrous sweetness and sympathy of expression, and sings descriptive as well as sentimental songs. He will be seen at the opera house Friday night.

The Appetite of a Goat.

Is envied by all poor dyspeptics whose Stomach and Liver are out of order. All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful Stomach and Liver Remedy, gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular bodily habit that insures perfect health and great energy. Only 25 cents, at Hodgkinson's drug store.

Fire on First Street.

At 11 last night a little eight by ten house in the classic parlous of Obinata went up in smoke and sparks.

It was inhabited by a young woman named Winnie, who stated that the fire was caused by a lamp exploding. C. S. Martin owned the house, which was insured.

A "Journal" Writer Expresses his Opinion Concerning a Peavine Mine.

The Nevada Mining Company's group of mines, carrying gold, silver and copper, is situated in Peavine mining district, Washoe county, Nev., lying about one mile easterly from the apex of Peavine mountain. There are in all sixteen locations, each being 1500x600 feet, comprising about 320 acres of land.

The formation generally is porphyry, diorite and grano-diorite, most genial for gold. The hanging wall is syenite, which shows permanency, and is the best contact known in the history of mining, for there never has been a mine opened, so far as known, that the above described formation did not produce a mine which had permanency and which did not increase in values as depth was reached.

The character of the ore found in the above described ledge or zone is galena, mixed with tellurides and arsenical pyrites, with a black carbonate of iron and copper—a most certain and sure indication of value.

Many of our great producing mines of to-day depend on the sulphurets to pay dividends, as that class of ore is decidedly more permanent than a simple free gold proposition. The mining and treatment of sulphurets constitutes the mainstay of profitable mining all over California. This group of mines offers unexceptional values; there being great facilities for working. It contains heavy percentages of sulphurets of a good paying grade, which numerous tests and assays show is good beyond all reasonable doubt.

It is now generally conceded that with the use of modern methods of mining and saving of values, the risks of mining have been reduced to a minimum, and that there is now even less risk in mining than in many other business pursuits, and this property affords such unusually good facilities for working, and such prolific veins which are so thoroughly impregnated and evenly distributed with the precious metals—gold, silver and copper—that a failure to make it a success seems next to an impossibility.

To make this report as short as possible we have omitted much detail matter, only showing in a general way the present and great prospective value of this very promising property.

Smuggling a Cook Stove.

"Speaking of smuggling," said an old time federal deputy, "I'll tell you a curious little story. Shortly after the opening of one of the Mexican roads, never mind which, a locomotive engineer got married to a native belle in the town at the lower end of his run and set up housekeeping. Among other things they needed was a cooking stove. He could get exactly what they wanted on the American side, but the duty on hardware of that kind was extremely high, and he racked his brains to think of some way to slip it down to his home without paying the exorbitant tariff.

"A cooking stove is about as easy to smuggle as a baby elephant, but at last he struck a brilliant scheme, and on his next trip he simply lashed the thing to the pilot of his engine. It looked as much out of place as a piano on top of a hearse, but the yardmen were conveniently blind, and he pulled out in triumph. When he stopped at the customs office, the Mexican officials stared at the stove in amazement, but they concluded at once that it was some new Yankee device in connection with the locomotive and asked no questions for fear of betraying their ignorance of up to date machinery. The consequence was that the engineer got his stove without paying a cent of duty."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Once Was Enough.

The young man who was trying to make the St. Joe boat was about two minutes late as he tore along River street. He could see the steamer hands casting off the ropes as he drew nearer, and, bumping amazed citizens out of his way, he rushed for the dock. The gangplank had been hauled in, and the nose of the steamer had swung six feet out into the river when he finally reached the water's edge. But that did not deter him. He was going to spend Sunday in Michigan or know why.

With a giant swing he tossed his valise aboard and then jumped for the steamer. He caught a rope and a post and held fast. Every officer on the boat expected to see him drop into the river, and bells jangled noisily as the captain peered over the side. When he saw the intrepid passenger was safe, the captain was twice as mad as if he had dropped into the water. Shaking his fist at him angrily, he yelled: "Here, you, by jimmie crickets, don't you ever do that again!"

The passenger had hauled himself aboard by this time and, turning a look of scorn at the captain, said: "What do you think I'm going to do—jump back and try it over?"—Chicago Chronicle.

A FLYING TRIP TO
"OLE VIRGINNY"
Interesting Sights Along the Road
to the Great Mining Camp.

[Third Paper.]
One o'clock is the hour when visitors are admitted to the black hole in the O. & C. hoisting works. There is no placard reading, "All hope abandon, ye who enter here," but the descent into Avernus could not be by more terrible entrance.

Down, down, three thousand, three hundred feet, nearly half of which distance is in steaming water reeking with the sulphurous fumes that are said to fill the Stygian pit.

But if all goes well, if the broad woven cable does not break, if the tiny platform does not part company with its supports, if the engineer does not fall prey to a fit of mental aberration,
if the thousand and one things that might possibly happen do not materialize—then we will make the descent in safety. Thank heaven, that insurance policy is paid up!

But all goes well. There is no possibility of accident. Safeguards in the form of automatic brakes, perfect construction of hoisting machinery and constant inspection of the appliances
make the journey safe.

At the time the scribe descended into the depths of the O. & C. shaft
the shifts were being changed and upon the little platforms were three rows of three men each. A "special car" was, however, reserved for the scribe
and his conductor, Mr. McKinstry, foreman of the mine.

The first halt was made at the Sutro tunnel, where the water from the lower levels passes out into the open air. At the rate the one elevator was discharging the tepid, sulphurous flood
it would seem that either unwater-ing should be quickly accomplished or that the source of the flow was some vast underground sea.

Day and night this twelve inch stream gushes forth and gradually the water is falling. From ten or twelve feet below the 1750 level it has sunk to 128 feet below the 1950 level. The work is a marvel of engineering skill.

In the 1750 level a winze is being sunk to meet the upraise from the floor below. Here the miners delve away in comparative comfort, so well are the workings ventilated by the powerful blowers. They are well lighted also.
These systems of electric light and power are superintended by James Sullivan, formerly electrician at the Asylum. He carefully explained the workings of these plants, entombed nearly two thousand feet below the surface of mother earth.

In the 1500 level the heat is intense.
A pair of drawers and a cap are all that the miners find bearable in the matter of clothing.

We had to step aside every few minutes to allow cars of ore to pass.
On this level the work is being done
which may mean no more assessments
on the stock of the famous Con. Cal.
and Va. When the Morgan mill starts upon the accumulation of ore from this level there will be bullion cars
traveling again over the V. & T.

Unwatering has done wonders for the O. and C. shaft, and so has Joe Ryan, the superintendent, whose able hand is at the helm.

Alive and Kicking.
Ye editor of ye Virginia Chronicle is mashly wroth. He writes that an item published in the JOURNAL to the effect that a rumor was current on the Comstock, said rumor being that the Chronicle was about to suspend publication (Heavens! What an involved sentence.) is untrue and libelous and he wants to know who started the rumor.

The fact is ye editor of ye Chronicle
is himself the guilty man.
The other day the JOURNAL scribe
visited Virginia and, prior to descending the O. & C. shaft in quest of material for a writeup, he called upon the local newspaper men.

Ye Chronicle editor evidently feared that the visit would result in subscribers received for the JOURNAL and lost for the Chronicle, so, as soon as the writer left his office he turned to his desk and composed an item reflecting upon the morals and manners of the JOURNAL scribe. Hence the tit for tat.

At last accounts the Chronicle was still continuing the struggle for existence.

Wheelmen's Meeting.
There was a regular meeting of the Reno Wheelmen's Club last evening, a large attendance being present. The committee appointed to arrange for an informal entertainment for the Manila volunteers reported that all arrangements had been completed, and that all members and the volunteers were invited to assemble at the club rooms
this (Thursday) evening for that purpose. An enjoyable time is promised.
The committee on ball reported progress, and that the dance promises to be the most novel event ever given in Reno. The fact that the Wheelmen are conducting the affair assures a social success, as the club does not do things by halves.

Xmas Trees.
Charlie Wilson, the colored Santa Clause, will have a lot of Christmas trees in Reno next Tuesday. They will

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

THAT COPPER LEDGE
IS A MONSTER
Great Mining Strike Recently Made Just Outside the City of Reno.

Some days ago the JOURNAL announced the discovery of a large copper ledge at the edge of town. At that time there was no definite information
to be obtained and the strike was reported to be so gigantic that it was thought that the whole thing was a hoax.

There is now no doubt that one of the biggest finds in the history of mining
has been made on this ground.

It is almost appalling in its magnitude, seemingly richer than the wildest dreams of avarice. The strike was made on the side of a gulch a mile or so northwest of the seminary. Jerrette
H. Brown, a mining expert from Australia and South Africa is the discoverer.

He and his partners have been quietly working defining the ledge.
It may be described:

The ledge has a base or foundation
of calcite in which exists green horn-blende, native copper, azurite, copper carbonate, arsenate and sulphate of copper, gold and silver.

Several persons have had assays made at different offices, taking what was the average of the ledge. A representative assay reads: Copper, 10.41 percent; silver, 12.2 oz.; gold, $4.48.

The ledge is resting on a footwall of birds eye porphyry. Its hanging wall is trachite. The strike is nearly northwest-southeast. Sufficient work has not been done yet to establish the dip.

Croppings extend for three thousand feet. Crosscuts show the ledge to have a surface width of forty feet. It is estimated that 20,000 tons of ore are in sight. This means a tidy fortune if it mills as well as it borne, for the cost of loading it on wagons, hauling it to the reduction works and treating it will hardly exceed $8 a ton.

The wonder is, if the ledge is what visitors claim it to be, that it lay open for location these many years. Let us all go look ourselves.

J. H. Brown, Frank H. Norcross, J.
A. Pottoff and D. W. Cuts have located claims on the lead and will organize a company. Thomas Wheeler and Andrew Fife have taken up extensions.

If this proves to be the bonanza that it is claimed to be, Reno will jump to 10,000 population next spring and old Peavine will become a second Mount Davidson.

IS IT RIGHT
For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard,
N. O.

It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited.
We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by Wm. Pinniger.
